

PASSPORT OF THE EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM

8D03104 – POLITICAL SCIENCE

PURPOSE OF THE EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM	Training of PhD doctors with fundamental knowledge, qualified specialists capable of effective work, conducting scientific research, achieving integration into the world educational and scientific information system.
AREA OF PROFESSIONAL ACTIVITY	The professional activity of a specialist-political scientist is carried out in the sphere of power relations of leadership and management, regulation of public processes with the help of sources, resources and norms of state policy. Scientific and research institutes related to the study of the political situation. State and municipal authorities and management bodies, national security bodies. The apparatus of political parties, social movements, in the mass media, commercial and public organizations.

LO1-applies scientific abstractions that characterize the general and specific properties of objects, objects, methods of political science research; classifies the skills of dialectical-logical thinking, shows the functionality of the theoretical tools of modern theory;/ LO2 - analyzes and summarizes the relationship of political processes with the peculiarities of the development of society; shows a creative approach to finding the necessary information for analytical activities, presenting their results; LO3 - illustrates the skills of writing academic texts; links the basic requirements for planning a comprehensive scientific diagnosis of political and managerial decisions and their practical results at the level of public authorities; LO4 - defines the basic principles and methods of political analysis of specific socio-humanitarian problems, puts forward independent hypotheses on the development of various political processes; LO5 - synthesizes information about political processes for setting goals, developing strategies and tactics for their implementation; plans the choice of optimal ways and means of resolving conflict situations in society; LO6 -analyzes the main directions of modern domestic and world political science; organizes research activities to analyze the key problems of political development of modern Kazakhstan and other countries; LO7 - applies practical skills in conducting scientific discussions, defends its political positions on the basis of scientific argumentation; applies academic text; LO8 - evaluates the basics of scientific analysis of political processes, predicting for optimal management decisions; puts forward the generation of innovative ideas in the field of	objects, objects, methods of political science research; classifies the skills of dialectical-logical thinking, shows the functionality of the theoretical tools of modern theory;/ LO2 - analyzes and summarizes the relationship of political processes with the peculiarities of the development of society; shows a creative approach to finding the necessary information for analytical activities, presenting their results; LO3 - illustrates the skills of writing academic texts; links the basic requirements for planning a comprehensive scientific diagnosis of political and managerial decisions and their practical results at the level of public authorities; LO4 - defines the basic principles and methods of political analysis of specific socio-humanitarian problems, puts forward independent hypotheses on the development of various political processes; LO5 - synthesizes information about political processes for setting goals, developing strategies and tactics for their implementation; plans the choice of optimal ways and means of resolving conflict situations in society; LO6 - analyzes the main directions of modern domestic and world political science; organizes research activities to analyze the key problems of political development of modern Kazakhstan and other countries; LO7 - applies practical skills in conducting scientific discussions, defends its political positions on the basis of scientific argumentation; applies academic text; LO8 - evaluates the basics of scientific analysis of political processes, predicting for optimal
I INTERACTION OF POLITICAL SCIENCE.	mitter we will or positive at continuous	objects, objects, methods of political science research; classifies the skills of dialectical-logical thinking, shows the functionality of the theoretical tools of modern theory;/ LO2 - analyzes and summarizes the relationship of political processes with the peculiarities of the development of society; shows a creative approach to finding the necessary information for analytical activities, presenting their results; LO3 - illustrates the skills of writing academic texts; links the basic requirements for planning a comprehensive scientific diagnosis of political and managerial decisions and their practical results at the level of public authorities; LO4 - defines the basic principles and methods of political analysis of specific socio-humanitarian problems, puts forward independent hypotheses on the development of various political processes; LO5 - synthesizes information about political processes for setting goals, developing strategies and tactics for their implementation; plans the choice of optimal ways and means of resolving conflict situations in society; LO6 -analyzes the main directions of modern domestic and world political science; organizes research activities to analyze the key problems of political development of modern Kazakhstan and other countries; LO7 - applies practical skills in conducting scientific discussions, defends its political positions on the basis of scientific argumentation; applies academic text; LO8 - evaluates the basics of scientific analysis of political processes, predicting for optimal management decisions; puts forward the generation of innovative ideas in the field of