

Ankara hosted the second Abai Kunanbaiuly and Congress of young scientists and researchers

The second Symposium of al-Farabi at the Institute of economic development and social research on "Kazakh history, culture and literature named after Abay Kunanbayev" and the Congress of young scientists and researchers took place in Ankara on November 9-14, 2018.

The second Symposium, held in Ankara from 9 to 14 November, was organized by the Institute for economic development and social research. The theme of the event is devoted to the international development of history, culture and literature of Kazakhstan.

The Symposium was attended by their means the master of the Department "Art education" Market Stanovich. The young master, teacher Bazar Yrystanuly made a scientific report on "cultural heritage of the Turkic statehood as a basis of development of art of the Kazakh people".

The main vector of work of the national pedagogical University named after Abai, in particular, the Institute of arts, culture and sports is the personnel policy, which ensures the formation of the educational process of young highly qualified specialists, corresponding to the global quality of education. Undergraduates, doctoral students and faculty are actively involved in various international symposia, scientific conferences and projects that contribute to the recognition of our University at the international level.

