Almaty, Kazakhstan

Dedicated to 75th Anniversary of Kazakh Academy of Sport and Tourism

Dear students and young scientists!

The IX Students and Young Scientists International Scientific Conference "University Sport: Nation's Health and Prosperity" will be held on October 10-13, 2019 in Almaty (Kazakhstan) under the patronage of the International University Sports Federation and the International Association of Physical Culture and Sport Universities.

The conference will unite students and young scientists from different countries in the field of physical culture and sports to discuss the problems and prospects of university sports, means and methods of health promotion and physical development of young people.

I sincerely hope that this conference will become an incentive for the broad participation of young people in the international student movement, the discovery of new ways of cooperation in science, education and student sports and will help to strengthen friendship between the youth of the world community.
